

General information sheet on compulsory nursing care insurance

Hallesche Krankenversicherung, 70166 Stuttgart, Germany, must be notified immediately of any changes that could be relevant to the premium classification.

This applies, in particular, to the following changes:

- If the contribution for private compulsory nursing care insurance has previously been limited to the maximum contribution for spouses: Does the income of the spouse or registered partner who previously had no income or only a marginal income exceed the current income limit? The income limit is:
 - €556 /month* for marginal employment (mini-job)
 - €535 /month* for other income (e.g., interest)
 - €556 /month* for both marginal employment and other income.
 - In the case of pensions, the payment amount without the portion attributable to earning points for child-raising periods is decisive.
 - If children have previously been co-insured premium-free: Does your child's income exceed the current income limit?
The income limit is:
 - €556 /month* for marginal employment (mini-job)
 - €535 /month* for other income (e.g., interest)
 - €556 /month* in the case of both marginal employment and other income.
 - Good to know: Income as a co-entrepreneur from agricultural activity or due to a statutory service obligation is not taken into account.
 - Have previously premium-free insured children started full-time self-employment (at least 18 hours per week)?
 - Have previously premium-free insured children completed a school or vocational training, a voluntary military service, a federal voluntary service or a voluntary social or ecological year?
 - For students previously insured under the student plan: Has the course of studies been ended or quit?
 - With civil servants entitled to receive allowance: Were there any changes regarding entitlements to aid? (Also with regard to the eligibility of a person insured)
 - Has an insurance obligation or an entitlement to family insurance in the social nursing care insurance arisen? Or was another private compulsory nursing care insurance concluded?
- Important for you: Our obligation to perform may lapse if and for as long as you fail to comply with your obligation to report all changes (Section 10 of the General Insurance Conditions for private compulsory nursing care insurance MB/PPV).
- * The income limits stated are valid for the year 2025 (Status: 11/2024)
